Standards that Drive the Business of Communications

Dear Mr. Ragot:

Thank you for your liaison of 15 April 2009. We have discussed your comments and have the following replies:

We appreciate the references to your documents; we will evaluate them to determine if any portions can be used in our Test Plan or other documents. We are sending our Phase 1 documents under a separate cover for your information.

The Appendix C of our Test Plan specifies an IP Packet Loss Model and is meant to be informative (which is now indicated in the document).

We have updated the Test Plan section 3.2 to clarify that at this time the document only covers audio, video, and audio/video MOS; we may make updates in the future to reflect more specific audio/video artifacts.

We will keep you informed on the progress of the document and will ask for assistance when it is warranted.

We did send the document to ITU-TSG 12 and VQEG and other relevant groups to gain their feedback. We hope that this document will become a standard that can be used by the industry for the evaluation of IPTV quality models.

You may also be interested to learn that our committee is working on WT-048, IPTV QoE Requirements, that will also specify QoE metrics. In addition we are working on WT-066, Technical Report on a Validation Process for IPTV Perceptual Quality Measurements.

Sincerely,

Dan O'Callaghan
