Hefei' s Location in China Map

Brief Introduction of Hefei

Hefei, referred to as "Lu" or "He" in ancient times, known as Luzhou, Luyang, Hefei, is a prefecture-level city in Anhui Province. It is located in the central part of Anhui Province, in the west wing of the Yangtze River delta, surrounded by Chaohu Lake.

Hefei is one of the important cradles of Chinese civilization. The East Fei River and the South Fei River both originate here, hence the name. It is an important administrative center, commercial port and military town in the Jianghuai region, known as "the right throat of the Huai River, Jiangnan Lip Tooth," "the first county of the Jianghuai River, Wu Chu Yaochong," "the hometown of the Three Kingdoms, the hometown of Bao Zheng, and the cradle of the Huai Army." It is also the central city of the G60 Science and Technology Innovation Corridor, the strategic dual-node cities of the Belt and Road Initiative and the Yangtze River Economic Belt, the comprehensive national scientific centre, the member cities of the World Alliance of Science and Technology Cities, and the national pilot cities of science and technology innovation.
